FOREWORD

In 2018 practically in all corners of the world horrific violations of the most natural of human rights took place in all corners of the world, and from this aspect it was not much different of a year than 2017. The Yemen, Myanmar, Palestinian occupied territories, Syria, Iraq, Afghanistan, Libya, Sudan, Nigeria, Saudi Arabia and Bahrain catastrophes were all just a part of the bitter display of the true meaning of human rights among those who claim to these rights. Alongside these, the violation of the right to clean environment, adequate housing, freedom from extreme poverty, the right to freedom of peaceful association and assembly, the right of access to clean drinking water, the right to free movement, right to self-determination and in most instances, the right to life of a notable number of human beings were violated, and unfortunately due to impunity, these violations continued on. Meanwhile and particularly in Iran, unilateral and unlawful coercive measures imposed by the United States of America have gravely violated the human rights of the most vulnerable sectors of the Iranian society, and sadly this continued on with the silence of the international community.

Nonetheless with the expansion of mass media and social networks and people's awareness raising in this heavy atmosphere is a shining light for shaming and accountability of at least some of the violators, and perhaps it is this fact that still gives human rights defenders and victims of violence some hope. In spite of the domination of politicisation and putting aside fair and honest procedures in the international environment, but still if there is a will and commitment, human rights can highlight its presence and un-ignorable.

In 2018 our Organization tried to take a more resolute step towards awareness raising of its addressees inside and outside the country, with a more scientific and practical approach. Hope for positive changes in the human rights situation, however little, both in Iran and all around the world is an incentive which removes the weariness from me and my colleagues at the ODDV's bodies.

With the hope for brighter and stronger days,
Mahmoudreza Golshanpazhooh

Description of children's conditions in the war in Yemen and stress on the fact that these children are deprived of hygiene, medical treatment, education and human dignity and according to the Human Rights Ministry the main problems that children suffer from are hunger as a result of war. Yemen's infrastructures have been destroyed, hospitals cannot function properly, thousands of people have cholera, 14 million people that include children do not have access to clean drinking water. Lthe use of banned weapons in Yemen has resulted in infants being born with physical problems.

2) Human Rights in Yemen: Children's Conditions

This panel was also held with the presence of three speakers, Ms. Safa Al-Shami human rights activist, Ms. Kim Sharif lawyer and director of the Yemen Human Rights Organization and Dr. Peyman Raooft from Children's Fun on 6 March 2018. Some of the subject discussed were as follows:

There are not many psychologists and psychoanalysts in Yemen. Due to the loss, arrest or torture of their loved ones the people in Yemen suffer from terrible mental conditions. Many children are deprived of education, suffer from hunger or have been recruited as soldiers. These children suffer from various mental problems. It is necessary for mental problems of the people in Yemen to be studied and its conclusion be made available to local NGOs and involved international organizations. The international community has not managed to protect the people and children of Yemen, millions of homes have been destroyed, millions of children are displaced and hungry. Each day 130 children die because of blockade, and hunger is used as a weapon against the people.

3) Human Rights in Yemen: Sanctions

Barriers put in place in Jerusalem which prevent children from getting to school. These barriers also create economic problems for the residents of the region and this is while the ICJ deems the Security Barrier as illegal. Children's conditions in Palestinian prisons is dire. Eighty percent of these children have signed confessions in Hebrew and are not aware of the contents of these confessions. 91 percent of Palestinian children interviewed have said that they were arrested while they were asleep and do not have access to legal counsel and don't have enough information about their case files.

The amount of money that is spent on weapons globally can be spent on better things. When threatened world leaders invest in the military which does not facilitate peace but brings instability. Democratic countries spend a lot of money on healthcare. Undemocratic countries invest in weapons. The issue of unilateral sanctions imposed against Iran is one of the subjects that due to the extensive violation of human rights, they have always been a concern for research and executive organizations. On the sidelines of the 39th Session representatives from the ODVV, ILIA Institute and Association of Iranian Women Supporters of Sustainable Development of the Environment met Ms. Tadaki Jonko, the assistant to the Special Rapporteur on Extreme Poverty (Philip Alston). Some of the subjects discussed in this meeting are as follows:

Highlighting America's exit from JCPOA and re-imposition of sanctions against Iran which has affected the fall of Iranian currency, and this has affected the vulnerable sector of the population in Iran, stress on people suffering from certain diseases, particularly Thalassaemia, who mostly live in the south-eastern regions of Iran due to economic problems they have practically cannot afford medicines. A rise of 15 percent for the treatment of this disease has resulted many patients across the country to opt out of medical treatment, which means a gradual death for these individuals.

2) Meeting the Special Rapporteur on the Right to Development

In a meeting with the UN Special Rapporteur on the Right to Development Mr. Saad Alfaragi stressing on Iran being underdeveloped in the border regions, particularly the south-western regions, and the need for better access of the people of the regions to crucial services such as medicines and medical treatment for Thalassemia patients, and the expensive costs of their treatment which is the equivalent of a labourer's month's wages. The ODVV representatives also pointed out the dust storms problems and their serious effects on the lives of the people in southern Iran and called for the Special Rapporteur to help facilitate regional cooperation between Iraq, Iran and Saudi Arabia to work towards solving the dust storm problem which at times causes schools to shut down for a week and disrupt the everyday lives of the people. Also the negative effects of the current conditions on illegal bank transactions and damages caused as a result were reiterated.

- Side Events

Holding Side Events is another opportunity in the Human Rights Council which can through the utilisation of the expertise and experiences of experts, to benefit from in the best way. Therefore with the cooperation of a number of NGOs, the ODVV held 4 sidelines sittings on the following subjects:

1) Human Rights Situation in Yemen: Violation of Human Rights and Crimes Committed against Children by Saudi Arabia

On 11 September 2018, with the cooperation of INSAN Organization the ODVV held a sitting on “Human Rights Violation: Crimes Committed against Children by Saudi Arabia”. The following subjects were discussed in this sitting:

Currently we are witnessing a genocide in Yemen, and this genocide’s target are women, children and civilians. Evidence of the extent of this genocide has been collected by international organizations and are documented in international documents. In its attacks, Saudi Arabia has targeted business, religious, and education centres, hospitals and city centres. America’s role in the Yemeni crisis is undeniable, while it proclaims to being a human rights defender, the United States continues to supply weapons to the aggressor countries. Children are the main victims of Coalition airstrikes. The death rates of children shows that an extensive war crime is being committed by the Coalition forces.

2) Side Event on the Human Rights Situation in Yemen: Violation of Children’s Rights in Yemen

This Side Event was held on 17 September 2017 with the speeches of 4 human rights activists, Mrs. Ashwaq Al-Gobi from INSAN Organization for Human Rights and Peace, Mr. Samuel Walton human rights activist, Mr. Abdullah El-Kebsi from INSAN Organization for Human Rights and Peace, and Mrs. Engline Kramer human rights activist.

The focal points of this Event included, the worsening of women’s situation in Yemen following Saudi-led Coalition’s blockade has resulted in rise in poverty, low incomes, smuggling, gender based violence and under age marriages due to economic problems, the impact of Saudi-led Coalition’s blockade on the physical and mental health of women in Yemen and 4.7 billion pound sterling of weapons sold to Saudi Arabia by Britain since the outbreak of conflict in Yemen back in March 2015, the use of these weapons in attacks against civilians, the illegality of the Yemen blockade and continuation of efforts of the Fight against Arms Trade Campaign to condemn Britain selling arms to Saudi Arabia in the British High Court, and the negative effects of the Yemen blockade on the economic, health and hygiene, children’s education, transportation, the national currency and the social conditions of the people.

3) Side Event on the International Community and War Crimes in Yemen

This Event was held on 24 September 2018 in Room XXIV by the ODVV and cooperation of INSAN Organization for Human Rights and Peace on the sidelines of the 39th Session.

The speakers were Mr. Abdullatif Elwashali Secretary General of INSAN Organization for Human Rights and Peace, Mr. Mohammad

Abo Taleb from INSAN Organization for Human Rights and Peace, and Mr. Abdulmalek Al-Maqaleh human rights activist.

Some of the points of discussion of this sitting were: stress on the application of justice in Yemen with regards to the prosecution of war crimes, negative effects of the Yemen blockade especially in the medical sector and health issues, economic and social effects, lack of reflection of the real news from inside Yemen in the mass media, children's conditions in Yemen who make up approximately 20 percent of the number of civilians killed in the conflict, crimes committed in Yemen clear examples of crimes against humanity with consideration of article 7 of the Rome Statute.

4) Side Event on the Negative Impact of Unilateral Coercive Measures on Humanitarian Issues and Human Rights Situation in Iran

With the aim of informing Human Rights Council Member States about United States unilateral sanctions against Iran, took the initiative to hold a Side Event on the negative impact of unilateral coercive measures on humanitarian issues and human rights situation in Iran. In this sitting the main speaker was Mr. Idriss Jazairy, UN Special Rapporteur on the Negative Impact of Unilateral Coercive measures, and Mr. Haytham Manna, President of Scandinavian Institute for Human Rights, and Mr. Dawid Bastiat-Jarosz, PhD candidate in political science and international economy, Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies.

Some of the subject discussed included:

According to studies, 70 percent of sanctions in the world are unilateral and only 12 percent have been imposed through collective decision. In July 1995, former UN Secretary General Boutros Boutros Gali said, "the use of non-military tools (such as sanctions) increases the problems of the people who have previously been affected by political and economic system problems.” Sanctions have negative impacts on poor people and the function of humanitarian organizations. United States sanctions have many negative impacts for the people and the weakest sector pay the highest cost of sanctions. In Iran smart sanctions have turned into indiscriminate sanctions. The media does not cover the subject of sanctions and their impact on human rights, even international NGOs who claim to defend human rights do not speak much about this, and this is puzzling. Countries that impose sanctions say there are humanitarian exemptions to sanctions but the reality is that due to actions such as sanctions by SWIFT, these exemptions are not put to practice. It must be said that in this sitting the Special Rapporteur said that he had officially told America, “you claim the sanctions imposed against Iran will be the toughest in history. But on 28 August you said in the International Criminal Court that humanitarian exemptions will remain in place. My question from you is, how do you intend to implement the exemptions in practice so that the weight of the sanctions is not put on the shoulders of the impoverished and vulnerable people?”
